ANTHRAX APPEARS IN HONOLULU AND COWS DIE QUICKLY

Dread Disease Appears in Dairy; Board of Agriculture Acts and Establishes Quarantines and Army Will Furnish Guards to Keep All Animals Away From Infected Section

Anthrax has appeared in Honolulu. Twelve cows had died and others were dying this noon. The situation is admittedly serious but there is no occasion for hysteria. The dairy has been quarantined and no live stock will be permitted to be shipped from this to other islands. The outbreak occurred at the Territory Dairy, commonly called the Farm Corn Dairy and managed by T. F. Farm, located on Metcalf street.

Commission Acts at Once
This morning a special meeting of the board of agriculture and forestry was called to consider the anthrax situation on this island and to take steps against the further spread of the disease and the checking of it on the dairy where it had appeared. Dr. Norgaard, the territorial veterinarian, then told the members of the board of the appearance of the dread cattle disease in Honolulu. He said that he was called to the dairy yesterday and made an autopsy of a cow that had died. He was convinced that it had died of anthrax and prepared to vaccinate the whole herd with serum but meantime another cow had died. The autopsy of this animal conclusively proved anthrax and Dr. Norgaard's diagnosis was borne out by one made at the Queen's hospital and by two other veterinarians last night.

Dairy Under Quarantine
Dr. Norgaard further told the board that he at once ordered that no animals should be permitted to leave the dairy, no milk be sold or delivered by it and took steps for the burning of the bodies. This morning he went to the dairy again and found that during the night several cows had died and three more were dying. He had ordered the dairy to be quarantined and the disease has been brought here for no one meal had been used here and on Kauai he had attributed the contagion to that. Imported feeds were used and he deems it possible that it was imported in California beet meal, for the disease is more prevalent in California this year.

No Cattle Shipments Allowed
After hearing Dr. Norgaard, the board immediately passed a resolution to prevent shipping cattle from this to other islands and took up the matter of establishing a quarantine district. To definitely determine the bounds, however, it was deemed necessary to make a trip to the dairy and this the board proceeded to do with the understanding it should meet again at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Dogs Source of Danger
One proposal of the board before it adjourned was for the establishment of a shotgun quarantine against dogs in the neighborhood of the Territory Dairy and this will undoubtedly be put into effect and all dogs found on the premises killed, owners of dogs being warned of the danger. Another proposal was a quarantine of the whole district of Honolulu from Moanalua to Mauna Loa, for horses as well as cattle, but it was feared that this would work too great hardship. Conditions here for quarantining are not so good topographically as on Kauai.

An interesting sidelight brought out at the meeting is the fact that it is necessary to import nearly all feeds and the statement was made that the islands do not grow enough feed to supply the cattle for a single week.

While the animals on the dairy premises are to be vaccinated at once there is little vaccine here and an adequate supply to inoculate all the animals on this island cannot be obtained until next week.

Quarantine District Determined
At the territorial dairy the commissioners found that the three cows that were sick had died and two others were leaning against a fence while still others were looking sick. Upon their return from their visit the commissioners established a quarantine zone from Beretania street along Metcalf to the quarry and in that zone no animals will be permitted on the streets, horses being turned back and dogs will be killed.

Army Will Furnish Guards
As the funds available to the commission are limited the commissioners called upon the governor to get permission to ask General Strong to furnish a detail of men to enforce the quarantine. This permission was granted and a call upon General Strong followed. He immediately said that he would furnish the men.

The board desires to state that none of the milk from the Territorial Dairy passed through the hands of the Dairyman's Association and that the board of health will take such precautions as to absolutely insure that no milk from any infected herd shall get to market.

The board further states that it desires to cause as little inconvenience to citizens as possible.

Dog Owners Are Warned

All owners of dogs are warned that a quarantine district against anthrax has been established by the board of agriculture and forestry from Beretania street on Metcalf to the quarry. No animals of any kind will be allowed to pass on that street. A detail of soldiers will act as guards and dogs entering the quarantined section will be killed.

ROENITZ HEARING OVER TO MONDAY

Prohibited Information is Confined to Strictly Military Matters; Right of Jury Trial

Nine o'clock next Monday morning is the date set for further hearing of the case of George Roenitz, former clerk to Capt. George R. Clark, commandant of the Pearl Harbor naval station, who is charged by federal officials with espionage.

A hearing was to have been held at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, but it was nearly 4 o'clock when Attorney E. C. Peters, counsel for Roenitz, finished some work in circuit court, so it was decided to let the matter go over until next Monday morning.

About nine witnesses for the defense had been summoned from Pearl Harbor but when it was learned that Attorney Peters could not get into court as early as was expected, the district attorney's office was able to notify several of the witnesses not to come before they had left the harbor.

Harry Irwin Is To Succeed Monsarrat

Governor Pinkham Appoints Well-Known Democrat, Attorney, on Police Bench

Harry Irwin was announced by the governor today as district magistrate for Honolulu, to succeed Judge J. M. Monsarrat. Irwin's commission issued today by the governor is effective June 1 of this year.

In leaving the police bench Judge Monsarrat steps down from work that he has held for six years, the last of which was under the appointment of Governor Pinkham. This term expired today. The two former appointments were by Chief Justice A. G. M. Robertson. At that time the law provided that the chief justice make the appointment. Now it is the governor's duty.

Irwin is well known in Honolulu, though the larger part of his law practice was in Hilo, which city he left about a year ago. For a time he was in the law firm of Humphreys & Irwin of Honolulu. He has a large number of friends in the territory who will be glad to hear of this new honor. He is active in Democratic politics and has been mentioned previously for a number of positions. His appointment was somewhat of a surprise to those who claimed knowledge that the governor was going to name one of several others who had been suggested.

GREEN HONORED BY SCIENTISTS

After a year spent in visiting Australia, New Zealand and Fiji, Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Green are back in Honolulu again and declare they would not live anywhere else but Hawaii. "We are back to stay," said Green this morning.

In recognition of his work in Maori ethnology, on which he is a recognized authority in New Zealand, Green was elected a member of the Polynesian Society, a notable honor for an American. He is a member of the Hawaiian Historical Society and is being congratulated by members on his election to the New Zealand organization.

Mrs. Green is much improved in health as a result of the trip. The Greens passed last winter in Australia. "I haven't had a decent drink of coffee since I've been away," said Green this morning, "and Honolulu certainly looks better to me than any place else in the whole wide world."

Green reports that there still remains an undercurrent of sentiment against Americans among certain classes of people in Australia and New Zealand, even despite the United States' entrance into the war.

BIG NATIVES FROM FIJI GOING TO FRANCE GIVE CITY MARTIAL THRILL

A martial thrill passed along Fort street this morning when 100 of the finest specimens of Fijian natives, bound for Calais, France, where they will work as stevedores in the Allied transport service, marched up town from the steamer which brought them from Suva and is taking them to Vancouver.

All big, strapping men, wearing light olive drab shirts and the native "lava-lava" (skirt) of Fiji, this being the uniform of the Fijian constabulary, the bushy haired natives, each with a lei from the British Club and Promotion Committee around his neck, the natives marched up Fort street.

The procession was headed by an escort of Honolulu mounted police. After it came the Hawaiian band, playing Tipperary. Behind the band marched the Fijians. They turned at Hotel street and marched to Bishop, where they lined up in front of the Alexander Young Hotel.

From the hotel the men and their officers were taken in street cars donated by the Rapid Transit to the Seaside Hotel, at Walkiki, where a luau was served them at noon. After the "eat" the party enjoyed a swim, the natives evidently enjoying it hugely, as they spend a great deal of time in the water at home.

The liner on which the contingent of traveling was met off quarantine by the British consul, E. L. S. Gordon, and the British Club's entertainment committee, consisting of George Bustard, H. G. Winkley, A. E. Tinker and James Wilson.

According to passengers on the steamer, the 100 Fijians were picked from a body of 400 native stevedores and are the finest men physically in the Fijian group. They were selected to work in France as stevedores in the British transport service. Their expenses are being paid by Mr. Marx, a Suva copra merchant.

Prince Sukumi, who is in charge of the Fijians now in the city, was wounded at the front, an after his recovery returned to his home, where he recruited a number of his nationality for service in France. They will be used in transport service in France.

Censorship Is Much Modified By Conferees

(A. P. by U. S. Naval Wireless)

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 25.—The house and senate conferees on the espionage bill have drawn a modified censorship section which will be brought before Congress with the influence of the administration.

The provision as now drawn confines the information whose publication is prohibited to strictly military matters, and retains a provision that a jury may decide whether the publication of such information was useful to the enemy.

The conferees have also agreed to a senate amendment to empower the president to declare an embargo on exports when he deems it desirable. This is designed to prevent the shipment of supplies to Germany through neutrals.

EXPECT TO ISSUE ALIENS' PERMITS BY NEXT MONDAY

Every Precaution in Oaths Required of Local German Residents

"I do solemnly swear that I will conduct myself while in the forbidden locality peaceably and so as in no way to harm, injure or assist or aid in the harming or injury of any fort, camp, arsenal, aircraft station, government or naval vessel, navy yard, factory or workshop for the manufacture of munitions of war or of any products for the use of the army or navy."

"I further solemnly swear . . . that I am not seeking to come or remain within the above area with any purpose or intent, either directly or indirectly, to violate any law of the United States or of any state, territory or possession thereof, or the president's proclamation of April 6, 1917, or to injure, impede or interfere with, by word or deed, the United States or its officers, agents or representatives in the prosecution of the war in which it is now engaged, and, further, that I will commit no act of hostility against the United States and that I will give no aid or information to its enemies."

These are the forms of oath required by German aliens in Honolulu who hereafter will be required to have passports to reside or do business in the several restricted areas.

To date, 90 German aliens have applied to the United States marshal's office for such permits, and it is proposed to begin the issuance of the permits next Monday, providing the federal officials complete the preliminary work by that time.

In the cases of alien Germans employed in stores or business houses in Honolulu, or otherwise employed, it is required that someone, preferably their employer, stand sponsor for them. In the application for a permit the sponsor agrees to take every precaution that the alien named in the application is in no way engaged in any action detrimental to the United States.

The Official Bulletin, published in Washington under order of the president, contains the following "Guide to Alien Enemies":

"The enforcement of the provisions of President Wilson's proclamation concerning German aliens has been placed in the hands of United States attorneys and United States marshals throughout the country. These officials have been given full instructions on this subject. Persons desiring information relative to the proclamation should apply directly to the United States marshal within their district."

"Daily many persons from distant parts of the country come to Washington to seek information on the proclamation which is obtainable from the marshal in their district."

PREMIER LLOYD GEORGE TELLS COMMONS SHIPPING PROTECTED BUT URGES ECONOMY CONTINUE

Effective Blows Dealt in Last Few Weeks—Central and Southern Russia Growing Chaotic With Local Disorders

(Associated Press by U. S. Naval Wireless)

LONDON, England, May 25.—Official announcement was made today by Britain's premier that the Allies are breaking down the German submarine menace.

Speaking in the house of commons, Premier Lloyd George declared that the successes of the Allied vessels and various devices in meeting the submarine blockade are such that a distinct improvement has resulted in the food situation.

He said that more effective blows have been dealt the last three weeks than during any other corresponding period of the war. The shipping losses, he said, for May would probably show a reduction as compared with those for April.

He also declared that the Allies owe a considerable debt of gratitude to the Americans for their effective assistance rendered and for the craft placed at the disposal of the Entente nations menaced by the U-boat campaign.

The premier, however, warned the people not to abandon their plans for rigid economy. He said that it would be necessary for these plans to be continued and for the people to eliminate all waste and keep their food consumption down to essentials.

Russia May Lose Armenia and Caucasus, War Minister Warns

PETROGRAD, Russia, May 25.—A new and serious problem confronts Russia, which has just reorganized the government of the young republic.

Agrarian disorders, wholesale confiscation of property, incendiaryism and other dangerous symptoms of anarchy are breaking out in many of the important industrial and agricultural districts of Central and Southern Russia, and are becoming more serious, according to despatches from various points.

A. F. Kerensky, minister of war and marine, speaking at Helsingfors while starting for a tour of the front, and referring to the situation in Asia Minor, said that there is danger not only of losing Armenia but possibly a part of the Caucasus unless the country stands firmly for united and aggressive military action.

B. G. RIVENBURGH SLEEPS AT POST GOING TO COAST AND IS PUNISHED

Bertram G. Rivenburgh, commissioner of public lands, today confirmed a report that he will leave soon for a vacation trip on the mainland. Mrs. Rivenburgh will accompany him and they will visit on the Pacific Coast.

Rivenburgh does not intend to visit Washington as a street rumor today had him doing. He says he will attempt to get back to Hawaii by July 1 when the 1917 appropriation is due.

During the recent legislative session a resolution was introduced to send the commissioner to Washington for the purpose of dealing with land matters relating to Hawaii, and it was probably this fact that flavored the street report with the rumor that he would make the national capital on objective of this visit.

chez then took the matter into court, seeking, through a petition for mandamus, to compel Clerk David Kalanikaian to allow him to register.

Circuit Judge Kemp denied the petition and the petitioner, through his attorneys, have appealed to the supreme court.

Bringing home the fact that the United States is at war, an army order recently issued at headquarters announces the court martial of Levi W. Leavitt, Battery F, 1st Field Artillery, charged with being found asleep at his post when on duty as a sentinal.

There is a touch of human interest in the order—the plea of not guilty, the findings of guilty, the sentence of dismissal from the service, and finally the mitigation of punishment to six months at hard labor and loss of a portion of pay.

"The sentence is approved," says the order above the name of the commanding general, "but due to the brief service of the accused and the peculiar circumstances connected with the offense as shown in evidence, is mitigated to confinement at hard labor for six months and forfeiture of two-thirds of his pay per month for a like period."

Leavitt is alleged to have slept at his post at Schofield Barracks, May 4, 1917. It was said today that a few other soldiers have suffered trial on similar charges. The extreme punishment for such offenses in war time is death.
